Background Info:

With elements of trip hop, gothic poetry, and traditional eastern music, the songs of The Hungry Ghost peek into the mysteries of everyday existence. Having been compared to artists of a similar brooding persuasion ("imagine Lou Reed produced by Tricky", says one reviewer), the ghost admits to influences such as Edgar Allan Poe, Leonard Cohen, and Portishead. "I love art that evokes a sense of terror and romance," confesses the Singapore-born songsmith.

Marketing/Promotion:

Radio: Focus on college, public, and internet stations that play trip hop music with a dark, gothic slant.

Retail: Independent record stores and major chains such as Borders, Tower, Virgin, Sam Goody/Musicland. Also online retailers such as Amazon.com and CDBaby.com

Press: Target alternative newsweeklies, daily newspapers, and regional music magazines.

Marketing: Comprehensive street promotion and advertising, including TV commercials, print ads, CD samplers, and in-store performances. We will target special events such as gothic conventions and music festivals.
